StateWide Assistive technology Augmentative, Alternative, Communication

The Colorado Department of Education's school-based SWAAAC teams provide multi-disciplinary Assistive Technology services to enable students with disabilities equal access to the curriculum and full participation in their education and classroom. There are over 60 participating school districts and 500 SWAAAC team members across the state of Colorado.

Supporting Learning Through Assistive Technology

What is assistive technology?

It is any tool that helps an individual with disabilities achieve greater independence in their activities for daily living.

Why is it important to schools?

It is a mandated requirement to consider assistive technology on an individualized education plan to support a child's participation in his/her least restrictive learning environment.
